Hello All,

There is no way to express what a challenging year this has been. Our show reflected this in the lowest numbers we have had in 10 years. This year had the numbers down at all the shows, and even the Suncoast club/show canceled their show all together. I do not print things without peoples ok, so thus when I say our shows numbers reflected lower numbers, we where missing some very great friends this year. Again I do not print names without permission, but we missed 1 person who passed away and 3 who where dealing with hospital stays of their own or attending to family members who were in the hospital. In our hobby, we often refer to specific exhibitors , as heavy hitters, which is defined as showing more than 30 birds and showing also in multiple divisions at one show. All of the people I referred to above fall into this category. If previous shows and years are used as a gauge, their not being with us meant there were approximately 140 birds not entered this year. With that number we would have been on parallel for an average, but alas not so this year.

All clubs across the country are hurting or even closing up. At last count 8 small clubs and 3 large ones closed their doors in 2017, and even the numbers at the nationals have continually fallen year over year. I do not say any of this as a negative, or to depress or worry anyone, I am just stating facts and to point out now of all times we must support each other and find ways to turn the current trends around.

It takes money and it takes volunteers, both which are equally important. Any and all clubs can financially exist, but it takes the volunteering of many to really make it work. Our numbers are down, and we are not alone, even with the lower numbers the show went off and all was well. I personally enjoyed every second and everyone I was blessed to be with. I look forward to our show and all shows I attend every year and sincerely wish to continue to do so. We get to be with people we rarely see and catch up on all of our lives and goings on, as well as share our love of our birds and hobby.

We thank everyone for their help and in joining us. We graciously hope your holiday season is a good, safe and blessed time. We then pray so hard you again join us next year and assist in working to grow our club and hobby back up.

Thank You So Much

Mike
